A Room with a View, novel by E.M. Forster, published in 1908. Forster's keen observation of character and of British life informed the work, which reflected the author's criticism of restrictive conventional British society. While on vacation in Italy, affluent young Lucy Honeychurch becomes

A Room with a View | novel by Forster | Britannica

A Room with a View is one of Forster's early works, and is not as complex as the more mature Howard's End and Passage to India. However, its strength lies in its vivid cast of characters, humorous dialogue, and comedic play upon the manners of the day, and in Forster's engaging, sympathetic exploration of Lucy's character.

Directed by James Ivory. With Maggie Smith, Helena Bonham Carter, Denholm Elliott, Julian Sands. Lucy meets George in a Florence pensione and the two share a brief romance before Lucy returns home, where she becomes engaged to Cecil. However, it isn't long before George unexpectedly enters her life again.

A Room with a View (1985) - IMDb

A Room with a View was the first novel Forster started, but it was actually published in 1908, after he'd written and published two other books. One of them, Where Angels Fear to Tread (1905), is often paired with Room, since it also takes place in Italy and deals with some similar issues, such as the British tourist abroad, albeit in a more serious fashion.
