The Farm Family And Their

The Farm is an intentional community in Lewis County, Tennessee, near the town of Summertown, Tennessee, based on principles of nonviolence and respect for the Earth. It was founded in 1971 by Stephen Gaskin, and 300 spiritual seekers from Haight-Ashbury and San Francisco. The Farm was the setting for "the rebirth of midwifery in the United States" and the creation of "the modern home-birth ...

Their relatives were buried in on the farm, and they wanted permission to visit the family plot. Years ago, farms were located considerable distances from town, so it was hard to reach church cemeteries where most members of the community were buried. Buying a plot in that cemetery was expensive, more money than most farmers had.

On real family farms, the farm and the family are inseparable wholes, and the local food movement allows their local customers to become parts of those same wholes. The sustainable family farm is not just a means of making a living but also a means of achieving a desirable quality of life, for consumers as well as farmers – economically, socially, and spiritually.

Why Sustainable Family Farms are Critical

Family Farms The vast majority of farms and ranches in the United States are family owned and operated. USDA classifies family farms as "any farm organized as a sole proprietorship, partnership, or family corporation. Family farms exclude farms organized as nonfamily corporations or cooperatives, as well as farms with hired managers".
